

Blue green algae

There is some confusion with regard to the blue green algae that is floating in the lake. The pictures show the actual algae -- it looks like an oily spill of turquoise paint.

This is not the "treatment" product. Once sprayed, the product binds to the algae and the algae is supposed to sink to the bottom.

If you see algae, please report it to our Environmental Chair, Peggy Sansone at paulpeggysansone@verizon.net.
